

You have a revolving door. Many people to keep happy, users and staff. In your world flexibility is paramount, content is king, and questions are constant.

The Better for you. Better for your customers.

Offer your customers lower prices and shortened schedules because your core lab can run many more assays per day.

Free up your research cytometers and get data from routine assays faster with the iQue Screener PLUS.

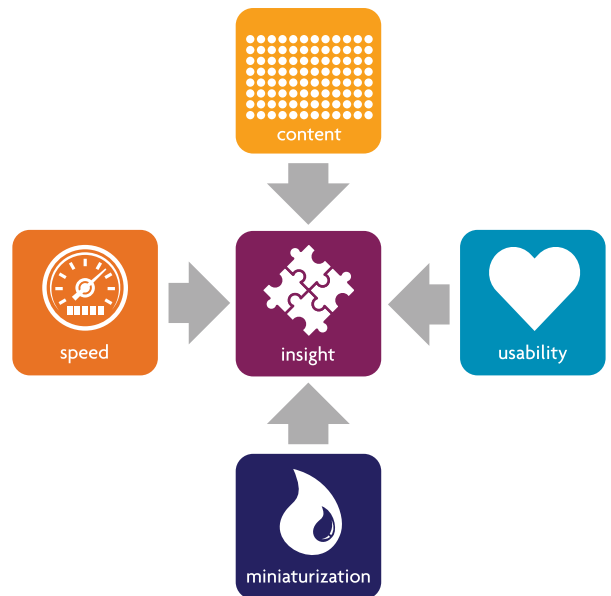

Enable users to run assays that weren't possible before, such as those based on limited samples like mouse blood or other precious cells.

See more. The screening-centric plate level analytics found only in ForeCyt software provide insights not available in other flow software packages.

Expand your range of services by running cell-based and bead-based assays on the same platform - even to analyze cells and beads at the same time.

Spend less time assisting users with instrument operation and data analysis. Enjoy better instrument maintenance with our autoclean function.
